Dear Don Pio,

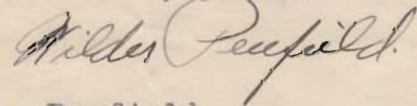

A book on technique by an American author is being published by Dr. McClung of Philadelphia and they have asked me to write a chapter on the staining of neuroglia and microglia. Dr. Kubie told me about your most recent modification for microglia and oligodendroglia. May I have your permission to publish these modifications in the chapter? I enclose a copy of your modification as Dr. Kubie gave it to me. Is this correct and would you like to have me publish it in the chapter as your last modification, or would you rather have me leave these two modifications out until you have published them yourself? My only desire in this matter is to do what you would like to have done with regard to the methods.

If I do not hear from you I shall not include these modifications. The book is just going to print, therefore it will be necessary for you to write me soon if they are to be included.

I have read the proof of the manuscript of "Cerebral Cicatrix". The Johns Hopkins Hospital Bulletin are writing to you to ask you how many reprints you wish.

Please give my best regards to your father and sisters. We are all well.

Very sincerely yours,

Wilder Penfield.
