Dear Don Pio,

You have doubtless guessed already that this letter is going to be about the chapters which you are writing for the book. I am very anxious to have both the chapter on Microglia and on the Epiphysis in as soon as possible. Most of the chapters have already arrived. Inasmuch as I must have your chapters translated I am very anxious to get them as soon as possible so that I may get them ready with the other ones. I should not like to drop these chapters out as they form the most important contributions in the book.

I hope that your father and sisters are all well. We are all very happy up here in Montreal.

With best personal regards,

Sincerely yours,

Wilder Penfield
