

May 9, 1931.

Dear Don Pio:

It has been a long long time since I have heard from you, and I feel that I must write you. I know you must be very busy preparing for the Congress in Basle, and that you must have a good many students working with you. I should appreciate it nevertheless if you could write just a few lines to let me know how you are and what you are doing.

I shall not be at the Congress in Basle, but I plan to be in Madrid in the summer of 1932, and I shall then hope to work with you once more. Will you have room for me in your laboratory.

I read Carter's article in the Zeitschrift, and I am abstracting it. I should appreciate it if you would send me some copies of my article on Giant Cells in their Spanish translation.

How is our work on peripheral nerves coming on?

Please write. Mrs. Cooper and I send you our fondest love. Give our regards to Costes, Gallego, and all the rest.

Your sincere friend,

Bernardo J. Lopez.
